Today's Mass: Twenty-ninth Sunday (Year A)

Today is World Mission Day, and the second collection is for Missio, the Church's official charity for overseas mission.

7            Cyrus was the king of Persia, and by conquering Babylon in 539 BC he - unwittingly - became the anointed one of God, who enabled the people of God to return to Israel. God can work even through non-believers.

h            : this song of praise stresses God's universal sovereignty over all the nations.

o            kn the rather long middle sentence, St Paul gives thanks for the Thessalonians' faith in action, work for love, and perseverance in hope. Later on, in his First Letter to the Corinthians (13:3), St Paul will stress the three virtues: faith, hope, and love.

8            : Jesus evades the trap set for him. When He says 'give to Caesar what is Caesar's, to God what is God's' He is not making the two realms equal. Give to the state what is due in taxes, yes, but the most important thing is to be totally committed to following God and his commandments.

             Perhaps there is also a reference to humans as God's coins, since we bear his image. We belong to God, as the coins belong to Caesar, and ultimately we must be given back to God.

Fr David

A Twenty year Relationship with St Thomas (part I) By MGr Boniface

The Dutch Montfort Missionaries, in their desire to open new parishes, walked from Chisitu Parish on the hills of Mulanje Mountain in the Southern part of Malawi to Chief Nazombe's Area on the border with Mozambique. It took them two days to walk a distance of 50 miles on very rough terrain through the bushes crossing rivers that had no bridges on them. When they got to the village they were tired and thirsty. It was Sotero and Mary Montfort, the parents of Fr. Boniface, who welcomed the first Dutch Montfort Missionaries that came to the area, hosted them in their house giving them food and drink.

A strong relationship developed so much so that they chose to put up in the house of Sotero and Mary on their subsequent missionary visits. When the missionaries found a suitable place to settle, they asked Sotero and Mary to move to live in that place. Just before they moved to the new place Mary gave birth to Boniface, their sixth son, on 19th October 1967. Sotero and Mary took care of the property of the missionaries until the time when they built their rectory and the current Church which is now Chiringa (Our Lady of the Poor) Parish.

Boniface grew up and went to Pius XII Seminary in 1981 and later to the Major Seminary in 1986. He was ordained priest on 31st July 1993. Archbishop James Chiona sent him for studies in Rome at the Pontifical Urban University in July 1996 to study Philosophy. While in Rome in 1997 he got in touch with Mgr Michael Smith of Tonbridge who welcomed him to his parish to take refuge from the heat and the summer closure of the college in Rome. In that year Fr Boniface served in the parishes of Edenbridge, Tonbridge and Sevenoaks before going back to Rome giving the priests the opportunity to take their vacations. That was the beginning of a relationship with Sevenoaks Parish that has now lasted twenty years. Fr Richard Harvey was so kind as to invite Fr Boniface to Sevenoaks every year even though he had finished his studies in Rome and gone back to Malawi.

The relationship with Sevenoaks Parish helped Fr Boniface to find a place where he could stay during summer holidays in Rome as the colleges would close and everybody would be asked to get away. Sevenoaks was a second home for this student in need of shelter. It also helped Fr Boniface to meet some of his needs as a student as his poor diocese could not afford to meet them.

Now Fr. Boniface works as Vicar General for the Archdiocese of Blantyre. He is the right hand person for the archbishop and is involved in the administration of the diocese. The archdiocese has five commissions:

- z The Pastoral Commission oversees all issues dealing with pastoral work, priests, sisters, brothers, the laity, the youth, communications, liturgy etc.
- z The Health Commission runs clinics and hospitals as part of the Church's mission of evangelization and of caring for the sick. It is necessitated by the huge shortage of government hospital infrastructures and the Church complements government efforts. The Health Commission oversees the running of all clinics, hospitals and their boards. Most of the rural clinics are church owned. There is a contract with government to provide health personnel in some of them as well as the medicines. In other places government does not come in to help. The needs are huge from personnel, infrastructure (buildings and equipment) and medicines.
- z The Education Commission oversees all matters dealing with Catholic education. The diocese has primary and secondary schools all of which are accessed by everybody and there is good collaboration with government through the Diocesan Education Commission. The salaries of the teachers are paid for by government. The problem we have is that of maintenance and expansion of the school blocks in some places due to big numbers of students as well as the provision of teaching and learning materials. There is lack of resources to build new schools in some very rural areas where students have to walk long distances to access education.
- z The Catholic Development Commission (CADECOM) is a developmental arm of the diocese. It helps the rural masses with education in the area of agriculture (enhancing irrigation farming, crop diversification etc.), sanitation (provision of toilets in schools, water through drilling of boreholes and piped water), disaster management, and works much more like your Caritas here. Recently it played a crucial role when the country suffered very bad floods and experienced severe drought in the following year leading to severe food shortages. CADECOM worked hand in hand with the United Nations under the World Food Program.
- z The Justice & Peace Commission is responsible for civic education, advocacy, primary justice, review of laws and the enhancing of justice in society in general. All these Commissions have their final authority coming from the Bishop and therefore report to Fr. Boniface and the Archbishop himself. So Fr. Boniface is very busy!

Next week: Fr. Boniface thanks our Parish

Notices

Altar Servers

David Brunning and Antony Tyler will be starting training soon for new Altar Servers. Anyone who has made their first Holy Communion may become an Altar Server. Please complete and hand in the Application Form, available in St Thomas's Entrance, or contact Ingrid in the Parish Office. We need lots more Altar Servers, so don't be shy about coming forward!

Pilgrims' Visit - Monday 30th October CANCELLED

We are sorry to write that the Aylesford trip is cancelled as the driver of the community coach is very ill. There will not be, we think, time to engage another driver before the final arrangements with Aylesford need to be made. If the situation should be resolved we will phone you. I wanted to let you know now rather than next week. Perhaps those of us who were going would all remember especially on 30th October, to be united in their prayers for world peace. Enquiries Pat 01732 453902

Visit from Bethlehem Nativity Group on 4th/5th Nov

They will briefly talk about the Holy Land and sell religious articles made out of olive wood from the Holy Land. Proceeds help and support poor Christian families. They accept cash, cheques and online banking transfers (from Parishioners only) and offer monthly instalment payments. See what they offer on www.facebook.com/TheBethlehemNativityGroup/.

Otford Junior Choir

Anne Knight's husband, Richard, left a bequest to St Bartholomew's Church, Otford for the formation of a junior choir. The choir is open to all young people, aged 9 years and older. It will be led by Debbie Gjeloshaj who is a dynamic, fun teacher with a background in opera and theatre. First monthly session is on Sunday 5th November, 3-4pm, St Bartholomew's Church side-room. Attendance is free, no need to book, just turn up on the day.

Parents and Toddlers playgroup

The Parents and Toddlers playgroup are looking to update the home corner toys and would be very grateful to receive donations of good quality second hand toys. Specifically we require: dolls and accessories, play food and shopping, toy kitchen

What happens at Baptism?

Let us look at the main parts of the Baptism of a child. After the celebrant's greeting there is the Opening Dialogue. This takes place at the entrance to the church, to show that Baptism is, in part, entry into the Church. The celebrant asks the parents the name of the child and what they are asking of God's Church (answer: Baptism), and if they understand their duty to train the child in the practice of the faith. He then asks the godparents if they are ready to help the parents in this. They all make the sign of the cross on the child's forehead.

Notice that the child already has a name. Baptism is not a naming ceremony like 'christening a ship' but the child is given a Christian name. Notice also that the role of the godparents is to support the parents in bringing the child up in the practice of the faith.

After the Liturgy of the Word, homily and intercessions (at the Ambo) come the Preparatory Rites. First is the alarming sounding Prayer of Exorcism. This is not about casting out demons but a prayer asking God to give the child the grace necessary to withstand the temptations of the devil. Then comes the Anointing before Baptism, an anointing on the breast with the oil of catechumens. This derives from the oiling down with olive oil of athletes and gladiators in the ancient world and is symbolic of receiving the strength of Christ.

The celebrant, parents and godparents, and the child now go to the Font. After the Prayer over the Water, or blessing of the water, there are the Renunciation of Sin and the Profession of Faith, made by the parents and godparents. They answer I do when the celebrant asks them if they reject Satan and believe in God. Here the parents and godparents are answering on behalf of the child.

The celebrant then Baptizes the child. He must use the words Name, I Baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit and he must immerse the child or pour water over the head three times. Often a shell is used to pour the water. The shell is a symbol of pilgrimage (and therefore of the child's forthcoming pilgrimage through his or her life), but also it affords just the right amount of water for the purpose.

The Anointing after Baptism follows; this is the important Chrismation with Chrism. Chrism is olive oil and balsam (a sweet perfume), consecrated by the Bishop at the Chrism Mass on Holy Thursday. Just as in the Old Testament priests, prophets and kings were anointed by the High Priest, so in Baptism the child is anointed on the crown of the head to become a member of Christ who is Priest, Prophet, and King. Chrism will also be used later on when the child receives the Sacrament of Confirmation.

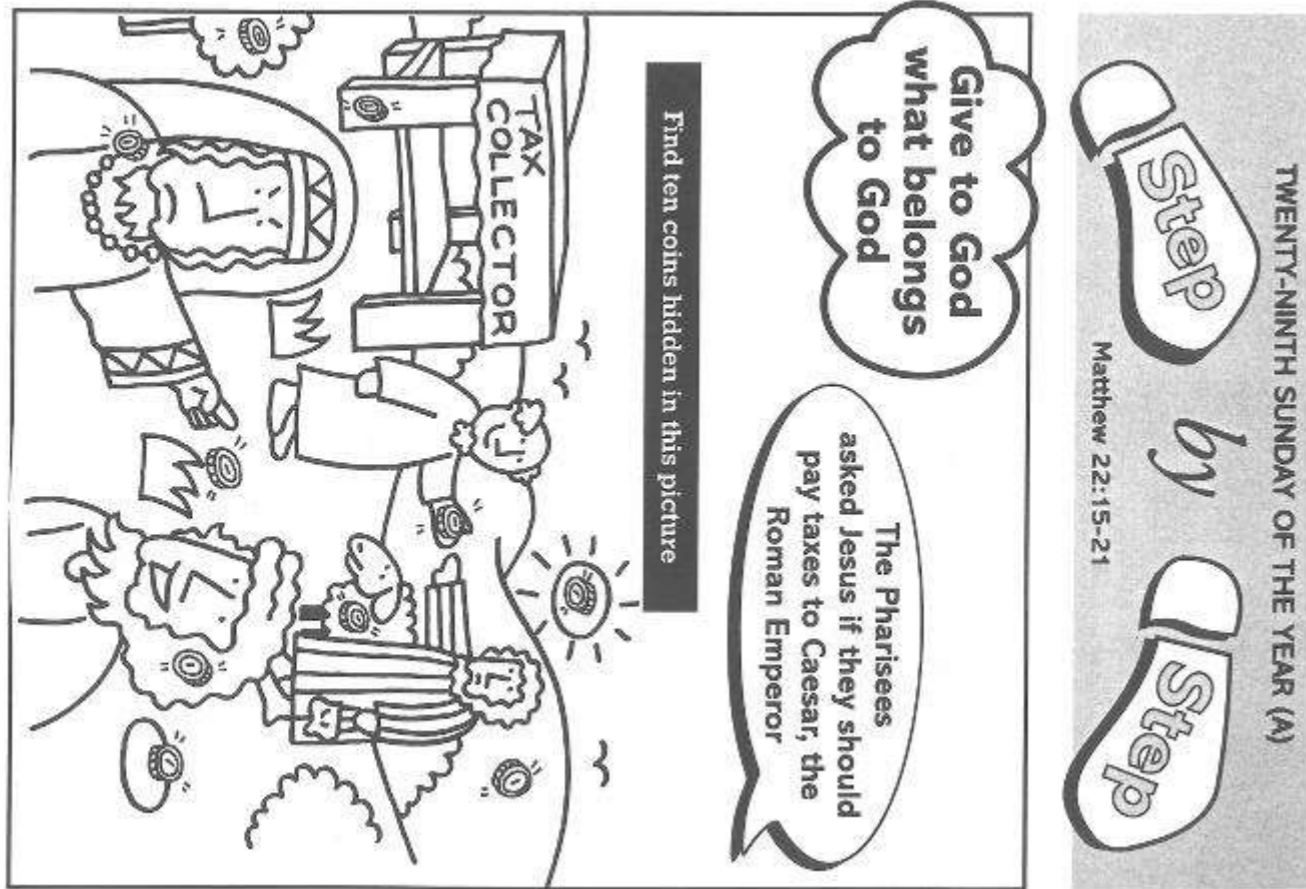

The child receives the Lighted Candle, to show that he or she is now a child of light and has received the flame of faith. In the Ephphetha rite, the celebrant touches the child's ears and mouth, and says a prayer reminding us of the responsibility of all Baptized Christians to hear the Word of God and to proclaim one's faith in Christ.

at baptism Your child becomes a child of light

Next comes the Lord's Prayer, and it is placed in this position to show that the newly Baptized child is now a son or daughter of God, by virtue of being incorporated into Christ and His Church in Baptism, and can address God as Our Father.

The Final Blessing and Dismissal rounds off the ceremony.
